Elizabeth Meadowcroft
Global MBA 2011
Director, KPMG
Manchester

"The MBA gave me a rounded understanding of business. The usual route to my current position would have been the ACA. This would have helped me to pull together a set of accounts, but the more in depth business knowledge I gained from the MBA helped me to get where I am today. It opened up my eyes to marketing, strategy and corporate finance and gave me a better, wider understanding of a business. It also helped me think about mergers and acquisitions with a business focus rather than just thinking 'what do the numbers say?' It was good to work with diverse classmates at the workshops we attended; I learned a lot from them."

Sharon Du
Global MBA 2016
HR Director, Astra Zeneca
China Operations

"I decided to do an MBA because after so many years in a management position, I wanted to refresh and recharge my knowledge. I wanted to broaden my network to know more people from different industries, and I also wanted to set a good example of continuous improvement to my son. I chose AMBS because it offered interactive workshops, impressive professors and a very diverse network, as well as overseas workshops. In the workshops, I had the opportunity to meet people from different industries and cultural backgrounds, so the group study was very exciting. I definitely think the MBA has benefited me at work. I have a broader view and I think more strategically, so I can really formulate and drive the people strategy for the business."

Zahi Chaar
Global MBA 2014
Business Development Manager -
Chevrolet, GMC & Electrical Vehicles,
General Motors, UAE

"The MBA not only helped me change my job, it changed my life! It gave me the opportunity to advance my career by moving to a leading multinational company. The MBA broadened my business thinking; my decisions are not only based on a sales perspective, they also integrate finance, accounting, marketing, operations and much more. During one course, my colleagues and I had to take twelve business decisions and analyse the financial consequences; I never imagined that would become my real job after the MBA."

THE MANCHESTER METHOD: 'LEARNING BY DOING'

Our experiential teaching approach focuses on group work, practice-based learning and reflection. We don't just give you the theory; we show you how to use it to get the results you want.

The Manchester Method produces highly employable MBAs who challenge the status quo in a complex and rapidly-changing world. You will learn how to:

- Take structured and data-informed approaches to decision making
- Lead and work more effectively with multinational groups
- Reflect critically and analytically
- Gain confidence in your professional abilities

The Manchester bee is found throughout the city as a symbol of hard work and enterprise.

"The MBA workshops provide great opportunities, not only to learn from the excellent lecturers but to study and network with like-minded peers. I have made some great friends and learned a lot about other people's experiences and careers. The workshops take a practical approach to learning, which I like – the mix of studying theory and applying it to a particular scenario really helps to reinforce the syllabus. It's challenging but very much worth it and everyone bands together during the workshops."

Elliot Hyde, Global MBA 2021
Director, Hyde Tech Limited, UK

The Manchester Method on the Global Part-time MBA:

Workshop residentials

Most courses include an intensive three-day workshop residential. The workshops are a chance to:

- Take time out from day-to-day working life and focus on your studies
- Experiential learning from leading academics and practitioners
- Work in groups to apply theory to case studies based on real business problems
- Meet colleagues from around the world and make valuable connections
- Attend careers and networking events
- Debate current business issues

Live business project

Shape your experience by exploring a business challenge in your own organisation, or an entrepreneurial opportunity in a sector of your choice. A supervisor provides support and feedback at all stages. The project is a great chance to:

- Test your next career move in a live business environment, or gain experience in a new sector
- Explore trends and opportunities for innovation
- Apply the knowledge you have acquired to solve a real business problem

ORIGINAL THINKING APPLIED

The Manchester MBA develops socially-responsible leaders who can navigate global challenges. We'll teach you to reflect intelligently not only in real business situations, but also on your own professional development. The diagram below illustrates the four pillars of our MBA curriculum.

Pillar 1: Management in Practice

How can we understand today's complex, uncertain business environment and overcome the challenges of leading and managing in a rapidly-changing world?

Pillar 2: Value Creation in Business

How do contemporary businesses create value? We explore this question from both an academic and commercial perspective. Our teaching emphasises the interdependencies – and interrelationships – between the operational, tactical and strategic functional areas of an organisation.

Pillar 3: Tailoring Your Journey

Customise your MBA experience with a live business project and our wide range of elective courses. This is your chance to explore a new field of interest, or gain more expertise in a specific area. Elective courses typically include a three-day workshop at one of our global locations. We also offer a number of electives with longer or online workshops to give you added flexibility.

Pillar 4: Professional Skills for Business

Which professional and personal competencies do successful leaders require? You will identify and develop these qualities through lectures, workshops and individual guidance sessions. You will also gain access to business practitioners, careers support and our alumni network. This will support you as you plan and execute your post-MBA strategy.

What you will study:

- Our course 'Leading and Managing in a Global Environment' examines current business environments using the practice-based Manchester Method. It encourages you to reflect and engage with the historical, cultural and ethical considerations that should underpin any commercial decision.

- Strategy and Competition

Your options:

The modules on leadership, strategy and contract management were especially instructive and enabled me to develop skills in partner management and technical contracting across countries and regions."

Bayo Olotu, Global MBA 2016

If you are looking to specialise in a particular area, you can group together relevant electives from your field of expertise, for example:

Entrepreneurship and Innovation

Whether you're looking to start up your own venture, launch a new product, or simply recognise that all organisations need to innovate to survive – we offer electives to help you explore everything from the innovation process to how to turn your idea into success.

Finance

Companies hire accountants to produce their accounts, but senior managers need to understand and interpret them. Our finance electives provide in-depth insights into areas such as venture capital, corporate restructuring and portfolio management. For candidates with professional accountancy qualifications, such as ACCA and CIMA, we offer an 18-month Accelerated Finance pathway. Please see p30-31 for more information.

HR Management

People are the most valuable resource in any organisation, so as a senior manager you need to know how to manage, develop and motivate the people around you. Electives in this field provide the frameworks, skills and insight to help you get the most out of any team.

Leadership and Management Practice

What type of manager are you, and how will this influence the people around you? The courses in this area help you explore your own management style and how you can use this knowledge to manage leadership challenges.

Marketing

As markets evolve, so do the skills required to access them. For example, how can organisations effectively leverage 'Big Data'? Has digital marketing built on traditional market concepts or rewritten them? Our marketing electives build on your knowledge, challenge your assumptions and help you develop new insights.

Projects

Most of us are required to deliver projects, even if our job title isn't 'project manager'. Developing a project plan is easy, getting your stakeholders to agree to it, securing the funding and ensuring your external contractors deliver it isn't! Unpick these concepts in our project management electives.

Strategy

How can you remain agile in an increasingly disruptive business climate? Where are your competitors heading? Our quickly-changing world demands strategies that are dynamic and data-driven. We'll give you fresh approaches to strategic thinking and improve your strategic insight, analysis and implementation.

Technology

You don't need to be a technologist to understand how IT can lead business change, rather than purely facilitate it. Recognising that disruptive change is often a force for good, we offer electives that explore technology innovation within a range of business scenarios.

LIVE BUSINESS PROJECT

Explore an entrepreneurial venture in a sector of your choice or a business issue that is critical to your organisation. This is an opportunity to try something new, work in an international team and build invaluable experience for your CV. The live business project is a significant piece of work that has launched a number of successful start-ups – some reports have even been published in academic journals.

Example projects:

- Rediscovering Nutri-Grain Bar's Competitive Mojo
- A study into the effectiveness of the Corporate Parent in delivering value to stakeholders
- The lean start up: 'Fit-for-life'
- The effects of earned media on brand preference, purchase intention and sales performance: a study on infant formula brands
- Segmenting and targeting Chinese e-lock consumers
- Identifying and quantifying the critical success factors for taxi-hailing mobile apps
- Helping Salesforce.com support the re-integration of unemployed job-seekers into the labour market
- The Impact of Employee Involvement & Participation on Organisations' Performance

"The students came in as high calibre consultants. They understood the problem quickly and engaged effectively with the Salesforce.com team, presenting a high-quality solution that provided useful insights which will be taken on board to execute the project."

Arsenio Otero, Vice President,
Sales Strategy and Sales Development, EMEA, Salesforce.com

"I enjoyed the balance between individual and group exercises, with the chance to work and network with so many different people around the globe. Our group project was 'A study of Non-Household Consumer Switching in England's Water Market'. The UK Government decided to deregulate the water market from April 2017, allowing non-household consumers (businesses) to switch water supplier from this date onwards. We looked into the effect and impact of switching, working with and on behalf of Ofwat (the water regulator for England and Wales)."

Reena Ghelani, Global MBA 2017
Winner of Best Overall Student and
Best Group Project, Managing Director,
Speck ABC UK Ltd

LEARN FROM THE BEST

Through their research, our world-leading faculty are making a real difference to business, industry and management. They will share their original thinking – and help nurture your own.

Ismail Erturk
Senior Lecturer in Banking and Director of Social Responsibility & Engagement

"For me teaching and research are completely intertwined. My research feeds back into my teaching and vice versa, and my course is based on my research into the financial crisis and the role of central banks today, particularly in relation to the social context of business and critiquing the shareholder value approach. At the moment I am looking at particular areas such as fintech, digital finance and ethical finance. The development of fintech brings with it many questions... is it going to deliver more efficient banking? Is it going to be disruptive? How should it be regulated?"

Nikolay Mehandjiev
Professor of Enterprise Information Systems

"Manufacturing companies compete in a global knowledge-driven economy and increasingly seek competitive advantage through quality, agility and personalisation based on the latest advances in IT. This means there are huge demands across the supply chain today, demands which have only been amplified by Industry 4.0 trends. In particular there is a need for rapid assembly of teams of SMEs to pool together capabilities to bid for complex contracts. There is also a need to pool together capacities to handle peaks in demand. And there is a need to change teams and supply networks in order to respond to changes in requirements or technologies, to changes in demand, and to performance issues."

Judy Zolkiewski
Professor of Marketing & Head of Marketing Subject Area Group

"My research and teaching build on each other and are grounded in business-to-business marketing strategy. In order to develop successful marketing strategies we must understand customers, customers' customers and the ongoing nature of many supplier-customer relationships while taking into account the dynamic nature of business networks. This understanding facilitates development of tools to analyse and manage business relationships and the wider network. Currently my research focuses on the key market disruptors in the area and the impact these have on our current theories-in-use: Industry 4.0, servitization (manufacturers moving into service provision) and the challenges related to changes in buying behaviour related to digitization."

"One of my favourite memories is the amazing professors, who were extremely motivating and inspiring."

Peter Clitheroe, Global MBA 2017
Account Director, Hewlett Packard Enterprise, UK

This thriving community includes over 60,000 ambitious professionals from diverse backgrounds, spread across 176 countries. You will also join the wider University of Manchester network, which includes 450,000 graduates globally."

Lisa Samberg, Head of MBA Alumni Relations

Developing strong contacts will help you maximise the opportunities your MBA presents. Through the alumni community you can network with business professionals and build relationships that will last a lifetime. You will be invited to join a range of events, including:

"The MBA was very well structured and gave me the opportunity to meet people from different countries and diverse backgrounds. It put me in a position to grow my career in an increasingly globalised and digital economy. Since I graduated, my career has progressed tremendously; I grew from being an individual contributor to a senior leader managing a team within just a few years. The decision to enroll on an MBA with Alliance Manchester Business School was one of the best decisions of my life."
